Utility

➢ The global ecosystem of the earth needs to be balanced. If not, then everything starts to fall apart.ecosystems can cause instability and will damage other systems. Presence, abundance and distribution in ecosystems are determined by the level of availability of resources and the conditions of natural and artificial factors that must be within the range that can be tolerated.humans can widen their tolerance range because of their ability to think, develop technology and manipulate nature.

➢ Now we are in the era of blockchain technology, where we can use this technology in the ecosystem. The system implemented is a global ecosystem, namely a socio-technical system and social network system that is distibuted,adaptive,and open with the nature of sustainability, scalability inspired by natural and artificial ecosystems. The model of global ecosystems is informed by knowledge and media about natural and artificial ecosystems especially for aspects related to competition and collaboration between various entities.

➢ By combining this innovation, between ecosystems, social media and blockchain we are confident of creating balance and prosperity.making a difference is a natural thing. As long as it is not far from the principles that have been applied.

Ecosystem Resource

➢ Program NLP or membership loyalty programs are promotional programs created by companies to create long-term and mutually beneficial relationships with users. This program has been developed because it has a number of benefits for business.

➢ Some customer loyalty programs such as membership systems that provide certain parts or privileges for consumers who have become members, the point of the system increases every time the transaction and the like. Membership can be developed such as by classifying member (GOLD, SILVER & BRONZE).

➢ The loyalty program doesn't just stop as limited as coins and promos. There are bigger things that can be tried and developed with capital of creativity, a marketing strategy that can be applied can be effective. our strategy is very simple,efficient and productive. We look for and choose where there is no continuity by utilizing a variety of facilities and infrastructure that are currently developing such as social media, community-based promotion, technology, and much more.

Social Ecosystem Program

(Focus on Community)

1. Running community-based promotions.
   Many community-based promotions are chosen as a promotional strategy that is quite effective. Community-based promotion allows products to be received directly on people who already have an interest or need.

2. Create relevant articles.
   The article you are posting will be indexed in the search   engine and allow people to enter your site. In addition to bringing in visitors, these articles also become a means of educating the market. This method is fairly easy, but has a fairly high effectiveness.

3. Contact with the media.
   The role of media in a business is also very necessary. This is part of marketing itself. If you have something that is valuable, unique, or provides a concrete solution, the media will also be happy to raise your story. There's nothing wrong with trying to contact some media, giving information about what you have to them.
